Message from the Dean

If I were asked what the two strong features of Mahidol University International College (MUIC) are, I would answer, without hesitation: international standards and academic excellence.

Indeed, MUIC's oft-repeated claim of being "the first and leading international college in a public university" does not go unsubstantiated. For almost three decades, MUIC has led the way in Thailand in terms of instituting international standards in both its academic and administrative aspects. The medium of instruction used in classes is English. More than half of its faculty members are composed of foreign nationals. Among MUIC students, a significant proportion is composed of students from scores of other countries. The College's exchange program, both inbound and outbound, is very active. MUIC enjoys the trust and recognition of other universities abroad, as shown by the College's formal linkages with more than a hundred partner universities in North and South Americas, Europe, Oceania, and Asia.

Adhering to Mahidol University's motto, "Wisdom of the Land," MUIC strives to uphold academic excellence, beginning with its stringent admission requirements. Enrollees can choose from 20 undergraduate degree programs, along with 22 minors, which include seven in the foreign language curriculum. Students also enjoy a low teacher-student ratio, giving lecturers more opportunities to interact with students in a manner that follows a transformative educational style. A stable IT platform supports educational activities along with Wi-Fi hotspots in key areas on campus. The College also has strong on- and off-campus internship programs. Students in MUIC also take advantage of the extra-curricular activities through the various student clubs. Many of our students participate in conferences and excel in international competitions. Our graduates enjoy a high percentage of getting hired both locally and abroad, with a majority of our alumni currently occupying key positions in various industries.

MUIC continues to move forward with the times, with change and success as key goals. The upcoming economic integration of ASEAN brings numerous challenges. MUIC will tackle these head on, aiming for a surge in quality international student recruitment, not only from the West but also from East and Southeast Asia, as well as in the growth of our infrastructure, stronger support for research endeavors, enhanced student development, better human resources management and overall sustainability for the College.

It is my pleasure to welcome you to MUIC.

Assoc. Prof. Phitaya Charupoonphol
Dean, Mahidol University International College

Visa Application

Once a student's application to MUIC has been approved, a letter of acceptance, along with a letter for a visa application, will be issued. International students require a Non-Immigrant Education Visa (category ED) to study in Thailand. Applications should be made at any Royal Thai Embassy or Consulate in advance before departing for Thailand.

Required documents:

- Visa application form
- Passport, with a remaining validity of not less than 6 months
- Two recent 4 cm x 6 cm full-face photos
- A letter of acceptance/admission from MUIC
- Evidence of adequate finances as determined by the Royal Thai Embassy

Students who plan to study at MUIC for just one trimester will be granted a single entry visa. Students who plan to study at MUIC for more than one trimester can apply for a single entry visa or a multiple entry visa. Each entry allows a 90-day period of stay in Thailand. This can be extended to cover the full period of studies.

Visa Extension

Students can extend their student visa before its expiry date by submitting the following documentation:

- Visa extension form TM.7
- Letter of certification from MUIC (in Thai)
- A photocopy of the passport
- One recent 4 cm x 6 cm full-face photo
- Tuition fee receipt
- Grade report

The visa extension fee is 1,900 Baht.

If the visa is about to expire while in Thailand, students should notify the Student Exchange Unit at least two weeks before the expiry date to allow enough time to prepare the required documents and procure the authorized signatures. The visa extension must be submitted in person at the Immigration Bureau.

Ultimately, students are responsible for ensuring that they renew their visa before the expiration date. Overstaying a visa is a serious issue that will result in daily fines and possible deportation. This lapse will be stamped in the students' passport and will become part of their record at the Immigration Bureau. If the overstay exceeds 40 days, the student must leave the country.

Required documents to extend a visa in the “overstay” status:

- Visa extension form TM.7
- Letter of certification from MUIC (in Thai)
- A photocopy of the passport
- One recent 4 cm x 6 cm full-face photo
- Tuition fee receipt
- Grade report

The visa extension fee is 1,900 Baht. In addition, the overstay fine is 500 Baht per day, up to a maximum of 20,000 Baht. Students may check the Immigration Bureau's website for more details and inquire about any new steps and/or changes in the process. Current visa information is also available from the staff at Student Exchange Unit Office. <http://www.immigration.go.th/>

90-Day Notification

Once the Immigration Bureau has admitted students into the country, their passport will be stamped with the conditions of entry. One such condition is the 90-Day Notification.

Students may check the Immigration Bureau's website for more details and inquire about any new steps and/or changes in the process. Current 90-Day Notification information is also available from the staff at Student Exchange Unit Office. <http://www.immigration.go.th/>

Required Documents

- 90-Day notification form TM.47 available at the Student Exchange Unit
- Original passport

Please note: There is a 2,000 Baht fine for a late 90-Day notification.

Re-entry Permit

Students holding a one-year extension visa who plan to spend their holidays outside of Thailand need to apply for a single or multiple re-entry permit before their departure. Otherwise their visa will be invalidated and they will have to go through the whole process of getting the proper student visa at a Thai Embassy or Consulate outside Thailand. The re-entry permit can be obtained at the local Immigration Bureau.

Required documents:

- Re-entry Permit form TM.8 available at the Student Exchange Unit
- One recent 4 cm x 6 cm full-face photo
- A copy of the page containing the most recent entry visa
- A copy of the page containing the stamp and “Kingdom of Thailand” label
- A copy of the photo and information page of the passport
- 1,000 Baht for a single entry or 3,800 Baht for a multiple entry permit

Thailand General Information

The Kingdom of Thailand

Location

Thailand is situated in the heart of the Southeast Asian mainland, covering an area of 513,115 sq.km. and extending about 1,620 km from north to the south and 775 km from east to west. Thailand borders the Lao People's Democratic Republic and the Union of Myanmar to the north, the Kingdom of Cambodia and the Gulf of Thailand to the east, the Union of Myanmar and the Indian Ocean to the west, and Malaysia to the south.

National Flag

Thailand's national flag, ceremoniously raised each morning in every town and village, is composed of five horizontal bands of red, white and blue. The harmony of design expresses the complimentary nature of these three pillars of the Thai nation. This tri-colored flag, called the "Trirong" in Thai and first introduced by King Vajiravudh (Rama VI) in 1917, succeeded an earlier design that had a white elephant (emblem of the absolute monarch) on a red background.

Historical Background

There are conflicting opinions as to the origins of the Thais. Three decades ago it could be said with presumed certainty that Thais originated in northwestern Szechuan in China about 4,500 years ago and later migrated down to their present homeland. However, this theory has been altered by discovery of remarkable prehistoric artifacts in the village of Ban Chiang in the Nong Han District of Udon Thani Province in the Northeast. These include evidence of bronze metallurgy going back 3,500 years, as well as other indications of a far more sophisticated culture than any previously suspected by archaeologist. It now appears that the Thais might have originated here in Thailand and later scattered to various parts of Asia, including some parts of China. Siam is the name by which the country was known to the world until 1939 and again between 1945 and 1949. On May 11, 1949, an official proclamation changed the name of the country to "Prathet Thai," or "Thailand," by which it has since been known. The word "Thai" means "free;" therefore "Thailand" means "Land of the Free."

Climate

Thailand is a warm and rather humid tropical country with monsoonal climate. Temperatures are highest in March and April with an average temperature of 28° Celsius to 38° Celsius and humidity averaging between 82.8% to 73%.

Seasons

Dry: March to May, Rainy: June to October, Cool: November to February.

Population

The population in Thailand is approximately 62 million, of which around 6 million live in the capital city, Bangkok.

Vital Information

Thailand's warmest gesture of greeting: The "Wai"

This characteristic Thai way of greeting is one of the most, if not the most, beautiful ways of contact ever devised to promote understanding among human beings. Done well and gracefully, even for the umpteenth time by the same person to another person, the one being "waied to" cannot help but feel a certain warmth for the person "wai-ing."

Anyone who has been “wai-ed” to must have felt this sentiment. The wai is used for several reasons, the most popular being to express a hearty “welcome” or “hello.” When it is intended as this form of greeting, the greeter almost always smiles and says “sawasdee” while lowering the head slightly.

Do use the wai correctly. A foreigner should never wai a waiter, tailor, vendor, domestic help or a taxi driver even if he/she is younger. Anyone who is paying for any service is the boss and bosses don’t wai first. However, we recommend you just give them a smile.

Very important points about Body Language

Head

Don’t touch anyone’s head for any reason! The head is the most important part of the body. It should never be touched.

Hands

Don’t point with the forefinger at anyone. The hand has two categories: the right being more acceptable and polite when giving or receiving things and putting things into the mouth. The left is generally regarded as less significant.

Feet

Do keep both feet on the ground when sitting. The feet are the lowest section of the anatomy. They are used for walking and never for pointing. Don’t place your feet, with or without shoes on, so that they inadvertently point towards a person, or religious image or picture of the Royal Family.

Female Body

As far as the female body goes, remember: Never touch a local female, friend or otherwise, on any part of her body in public, not even her hand.

Person

Don’t step over any part of another person. You should not step over a person’s feet if he/she is sitting up, or any part of the body if he/she is lying down.

Cleanliness and Smartness

Thais dress decently and in clean clothes even at home. If you appear unkempt, looking like a junkie or worse still, smelly, do not be surprised if a Thai shies away from you or refuses to greet you with the over-publicized Thai smile.

Concerning Religion

It might seem strange how something “personal” in clothing can cause religious offense in Thailand. However, all foreigners, regardless of country of origin, should observe the following: Do change clothes. If you are already dressed for the beach in a very loose blouse or semisee-through top or short shorts—this includes the men as well—and then decide to visit the temple, change into “acceptable” clothing first. If this is too bothersome, don’t go at all. Decent attire is a must in the vicinity of any temple, including its compound. No exceptions.

Monks and nuns

More likely, short-time visitors might not even see a white-robed, clean shaven head, female religious person. Happily, there are fewer rules (for the stranger, that is) governing the nuns than the saffron-robed monks. Whether the person in a yellow robe is eighty years old or an eight-year old boy, Thais accord them proper respect, though obviously the small fellow, a novice normally, gets less reverence. The probable area of physical contact with a monk, outside the temple area could be on the public transportation system: a bus, boat or train. Women should make a note of it.

When a monk is around

Rule number one: Women must never touch a monk or his robe. In any public transportation or at home or in a private car, women cannot sit next to the man in yellow robe.

Do try to sit lower than a monk

Rule number two: No one should sit with his/her head higher than the monk's. That is why in temples, monks sit on a platform.

Do Wai the men in saffron robes

Rule number three: One should always wai a monk when he comes face to face for a chitchat. The monk will never wai back. At most he will smile. Even if he appears to ignore the wai, remember that he cannot return the same gesture. But that does not mean he does not appreciate your respect for him.

Do walk slightly behind a monk when strolling with him

Rule number four: Try not to be abreast of him. Walk just behind him. A short distance is acceptable today. It is another sign of displaying respect for the religious man and to uphold an old belief. The actual space should be further back so that your shadow does not fall on him.

Money and Banking

You need to have sufficient money in Thai currency or traveler's cheques to cover your expenses during the first few days. As a general rule, try not to carry all of your money and credit cards with you all the time. Be careful about using debit card. If someone is fraudulently using your account, you can contact the credit card company and your loss will be limited. With a debit card, a thief has full access to a bank account, and it would be extremely difficult to recover your money.

Always keep a little cash with you while in Thailand because it is more of a cash rather than a credit-card culture. Well-known hotels and large shopping centers will take credit cards, but most small vendors won't. When traveling to other countries, it is best to convert your Thai Baht back to either US Dollars or Euros and then convert a little at a time to the local currency. Please check with your bank about transferring funds to Thailand. If your stay here is short, you can rely on your ATM card or credit cards. If you intend staying for longer periods, we'd recommend opening a Thai bank account.

To open a bank account you need a copy of your passport. Please note that you need the original document when opening a new account. Banks are usually open 8:30 am – 3:30 pm daily, but are closed on weekends and on public holidays. There are some banks in department stores that are open until 8:00 pm and some even open on weekends.

Health Risks in Thailand

Even though Thailand has been highly successful in controlling the spread of the pandemic, HIV/AIDS remains a serious problem in Southeast Asia. Students are strictly advised to avoid associating with HIV-related risk behaviors, including infrequent condom use, commercial sex activity and unprotected anal intercourse.

Malaria prophylaxis should be avoided as Bangkok and the vicinity, including Salaya, are not endemic areas. The falciparum malaria parasite in Thailand is resistant to all conventional anti-malarial medications. Prophylactic drugs only hamper the diagnosis of the condition. Since many students from overseas are not well-acquainted with the nature of Thai food, they are likely to experience mild diarrhea or more severe illnesses such as food poisoning or dysentery. Mild diarrhea can be alleviated through taking plenty of water and soft foods; however, for more severe diarrhea or gastro-intestinal disturbances, it is better to avoid taking diarrhetic medication. Using activated charcoal pills instead, sold in Thai pharmacies is highly advised. However, it is better for the diarrhea to run its course, to aid the body in getting rid of the bacteria/virus, which otherwise can cause severe health problem. And there are also serious bacterial infections that cause diarrhea. Please be aware of this.

Eating and Ordering Thai Food

Thai food is eaten with a fork and spoon. Even a single dish, such as fried rice with pork or steamed rice topped with roasted duck, is served in bite-sized slices or chunks obviating the need for a knife. The spoon is used to convey food to the mouth. Ideally, eating Thai food is a communal affair involving two or more people, principally because the greater the number of diners the greater the number of dishes ordered. Generally speaking two diners order three dishes in addition to their own individual plates of steamed rice, three diners four dishes, and so on. Diners choose whatever they require from shared dishes and generally add it to their own rice. Soups are enjoyed concurrently with rice and other dishes, not independently. Spicy dishes are balanced by bland dishes to avoid discomfort.

The ideal Thai meal is a harmonious blend of the spicy, the subtle, the sweet and the sour, and is meant to be equally satisfying to the eye, nose and palate. A typical meal might include a clear soup (perhaps bitter melons stuffed with minced pork), a steamed dish (mussels in curry sauce), a fried dish (fish with ginger), a hot salad (beef slices on a bed of lettuce, onions, chilies, mint and lemon juice) and a variety of sauces into which food is dipped. This would be followed by sweet desserts and /or fresh fruits such as mangoes, durian, jackfruit, papaya, grapes or melon.

Meals

MUIC provides several on-campus options for students, including cafeterias, buffet lunches, hotel outlets, and the Brew & Bev Bistro. Restaurants and cafes can easily be found along the road opposite the campus. Additionally, convenient stores and markets are located both on- and off campus. If you prefer to cook for yourself, you can prepare your meal at home. The College provides cooking facilities for your convenience.

Thai Cuisine

Thai food is internationally famous. Whether chili-hot or comparatively bland, harmony is the guiding principle behind each dish. Thai cuisine is essentially a marriage of centuries-old Eastern and Western influences harmoniously combined into something uniquely Thai. The characteristics of Thai food depend on who cooks it, for whom it is cooked, for what occasion and where it is cooked to suit all palates. Originally, Thai cooking reflected the characteristics of a waterborne lifestyle. Aquatic animals, plants and herbs were major ingredients. Large chunks of meat were eschewed. Subsequent influences introduced the use of sizeable chunks to Thai cooking.

Living Expenses

You are strongly advised to make sure you will have sufficient money to cover all your expenses while studying in Thailand. As well as money to pay your fees you will need enough money for your living expenses. How much money you will actually spend will depend on your personal lifestyle. Each month you should allow at least 20,000 – 25,000 Baht for yourself.

Example of what you will have to pay for are :

Accommodation

Bills

(Air conditioning, lighting and water) 2,000 Baht per month

Safety and Security

Students are advised to insure their possessions before leaving the country. If you are traveling with valuables such as computers and cameras, make a note of their serial numbers. You should also keep a record of your credit card numbers. Always keep money in a safe place as it may not be possible to insure against its loss or theft.

Driving in Thailand

The traffic in Thailand runs on the left lane, so please be extra careful when driving, especially if you are coming from a country where the traffic runs on the right.

Electricity

The electrical current in Thailand is 220 v /50 cycle. All electrical appliances need 220 volts.

Leisure and Entertainment

With some 500 acres of managed land, including parklands, sports facilities, student health center, banking service, post office, and convenient store, the Salaya Campus is the largest of the four Mahidol University campuses and is one of the largest university campuses in the region.

Apart from the tranquil scenery, the surrounding areas provide a wealth of attractions, from the sacred Buddhist Park (Buddhamonthon) and its magnificent Aksa Road decorated with hundreds of the mythical creatures called “Kinnaree” to the fresh traditional Thai market at “Don Wai.”

Salaya is a thriving campus town and residential suburb. Buses to the city leave every 5 minutes and a modern expressway runs directly to the heart of Bangkok. It takes only 15 minutes to reach the department store in town plus another 10 to go chill out at the famous Kaosan Road.
