The field subcommittees and the selection committee shall be, in accordance with the principle of balanced composition, made up of both sexes. They shall consist of at least three lecturers or researchers of recognized prestige. In addition, they shall be constituted, mostly, by members external to the University Carlos III of Madrid.

The members of the subcommittees and of the selection committee shall act in keeping with the principles of independence, transparency, and objectivity, and in accordance with the values laid down in the European Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers and will receive the information necessary for this purpose.

Six subcommittees are to be established, one for each of the following fields: Librarianship, Documentation and Humanities; Legal Sciences; Social Sciences; Industrial, Aerospace and Biomedical Engineering; Information and Communication Technologies; and Biomedical Sciences. All members of these subcommittees will be external to the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid.

The selection committee will be formed by the presidents of each of the field subcommittees and the vice-rectorate of teaching staff of the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid and will be responsible for homogenizing criteria between the subcommittees.

Applications will be rated with a score of between 0 and 100 points, with the following assessment criteria:

The relevance and contribution that the candidate has made will be assessed based on articles published in scientific journals, books or chapters of scientific and technical books, patents granted or licensed, and, in general, in any contribution that allows the different aspects of their research, including the management and transfer of scientific and technological results to be assessed. Mobility will be positively assessed, especially international mobility and the teaching activity carried out by the candidate.

b) Scientific-technical history of the host group, up to 30 points.

The quality and interest of the scientific-technical background of the host group or Department where work is to be carried out will be assessed, as well as the pre- and postdoctoral training
